Minor hockey alive and well in Elk Point

Minor hockey is alive and well in Elk Point, with five teams enjoying competition this year.

The Micro Novice team is coached by Mike MacDonald and Allan Loughran, with Pat Brodwin as manager. They are having a reasonably good year, with good turnouts of their mostly first-year players.

Novice I is coached by Tony Peters.

Dave Cousins, Lynall Slywka and Lorne Kozicky, coach the Novice II team, which is made up mostly of first year players. They have a 4 win, 5 loss, 1 tie record and are managed by Claire Ference.

Ron Croteau coaches the Pee wee team this year.

Elk Point Midget Thunder are coached by George Bendixen and Danny Flett, with Doug Bassett as trainer and Brian Tucker as manager. They are having another great season, despite a number of injuries, and this past weekend, tied with the best team in the league's south division.

Thunder meets league's top teams

Elk Point Midget Thunder played two top teams this past week, coming out with one loss and one tie.

Wednesday night the Thunder braved the -40 temperature to visit their arch rivals, the Kitscoty Pitbulls, the only team they have been unable to beat this year. Kitscoty had three on the scoreboard before Marty Bendixen and Rene Demoissac scored for Thunder, making it 3-2 after 40 minutes. The third period was scoreless until the last 5 minutes, when the floodgates opened and Pitbulls added three more for a final 6-2 score.

Town & Country

Chamber looking for 1996 executive

With their 1996 annual meeting just over two weeks away, Elk Point Chamber of Commerce's nominating committee is coming up almost empty-handed in their search for a new executive. Only the position of Treasurer has been filled to date.

The committee is looking for a president, vice president and secretary, since the current president and secretary have filled those positions as long as allowed to under the Chamber's bylaws, and the current vice president is leaving Elk Point in the near future. This leaves the Chamber's leadership wide open to be contested by any members of the business community who are willing to help Elk Point grow and develop its potential as a great place to do business.

The annual meeting is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, February 7, and will have Walter da Silva as guest speaker.

A report from the meeting between Town Council and the FCSS Board said that this was a good meeting with much sharing of ideas. The Town would like to see FCSS operate longer hours, but keep within the current budget. While it was felt unlikely that the department would be discontinued, it may have a different role to play in the community.

Elk Point Auto Club is looking forward to spring, and wants the Chamber's Merchants Committee to decide on a date for their joint effort, so that advertising can go out to car show enthusiasts.

The Town of Elk Point has decided to take the initiative for physician recruitment. Barb Kaufman, coordinator of health and clinical services at the Elk Point Health Centre, told the Chamber that she has written to the Lakeland Regional Health Authority, and has asked what incentives they could help Elk Point to offer.

The Health Centre also needs a physiotherapist, as they will have no physiotherapy service as of the end of January. There is a shortage of 18 physicians in the LRHA region.

George Rife, general manager of the St. Paul / Smoky Lake Business and Community Development Corporation, said he is involved in a similar search in Smoky Lake, where "the community is doing all the work" toward finding another doctor. The LRHA has offered one financial incentive at that location, in the form of office space in the hospital at a reasonable rate. So far, Rife says, "we have a nibble." He said he would be prepared to put some time into working with the Elk Point committee in their search.

Rife visited the Chamber to discuss the process of creating an economic development plan for Elk Point. The BCDC is federally funded, and was originally set up to create employment opportunities. It is administered by a board with representatives from the towns and municipalities in the region, and offers such services as helping to create business development plans and to loan funds as a lender of last resort.

"We also do community development — anything to strengthen the community, whether it's helping an ag society or working on doctor recruitment. I don't see any difference between a business and a community organization. They're both trying to keep running to serve the community."

Rife has been involved in creation of an economic development plan for the County of Smoky Lake, and will be doing the same with the Town of Smoky Lake. Rife is also "prepared to help here. If the Chamber wants a strategic plan, I would do that as part of my services. We're charging towns $500."

Sorry, wrong number

The toll-free number of the Lakeland Regional Health Authority, for further information on the establishment of community health councils is 1-800-815-8683. Our apologies to anyone who may have tried the number published in our January 9 issue and found it was not in service.

Thunder meets the top team from the south division, Viking, coached by Gary Sutter, oldest of the famous hockey family. Viking dominated the first period, outshooting Thunder 10-3, but only one made it by goalie BJ Tucker. Thunder tied the game early in the second with a goal by Jordan Bassett. Viking scored again, making it 2-1 at the end of the period. Clayton Cardinal tied it up again for Thunder half way through the third period. Playing most of the game with only two lines, due to injured players, Thunder held on for the tie.

This week they travel to Lloydminster for a tournament.

You can reach out and make a difference!

In Elk Point there are people who, for one reason or another, may not be able to fill out their tax return. You can lend a hand by attending a volunteer workshop to learn how to complete straightforward tax returns. Once the course is completed, you will be able to reach out and help your community by completing tax returns for those in need of assistance. FCSS matches volunteers with clients and all information is kept strictly confidential. Reference materials and ongoing assistance will be provided and these tax returns are given priority by Revenue Canada. Reach out and make a difference by attending this taxation workshop on Wednesday, January 31 from 9:00 to 2:00 at the Seniors Centre. For those who are unable to make the day session, there will be an evening session from 6:30 to 10:00 p.m. at the St. Paul County Office (call Linnette, 645-1950). There is no cost for the workshop. Participants just need to bring a calculator and a brown bag lunch. To register or for more information call FCSS at 724-3800.

YOU NEVER KNOW WHAT'S GOING ON BEHIND PEOPLE'S DOORS

Solemnly, they stood together and watched the ambulance attendants remove all the bodies. Those who stood there, not quite believing what they were seeing, quietly began to talk.

"What a shock! Such a close family... went to church every Sunday... took their holidays together." "How could it end this way? What would make him kill them all?"

"Well, my Annie says there was always something strange about their girl. She would never get changed with the other girls for gym and she was always flirting with the boys, even when she was real little. She always had to get right home from school. Then when she ran away, there was a real ruckus. Her dad had the police after her in nothing flat. They only brought her home last night, just before it all happened." "Well, it just goes to show you, you never know what's going on behind people's doors, especially theirs. They never had anything to do with the rest of the neighborhood. Always acted as though they were better than the rest of us."

There are several ways that denial of responsibility for addressing the problem of family violence contributes to the problem.

Communities which do not provide adequate protective services for victims or potential victims of abuse not only contribute to the continuation of the abuse by not providing viable alternatives to those victims, but also give the message that no appropriate help is available. This can be interpreted by both the abused and the abusers to mean that there is no way to escape, and maybe even no need to in the eyes of the community.

Communities which do not provide negative consequences for abusive behavior are contributing to the continuation of abuse by not providing some kind of sanction for those who need that to curb their abuse. The lack of negative consequences may even be interpreted as condoning the behavior. On the other hand, a general community awareness of the certainty of sanctions would likely act as a deterrent for some potential abusers.

Communities that do not provide some assistance for abusers or potential abusers to change their behavior are contributing to the initiation or continuation of abuse. They are saying that either there is no way to change, that mistakenly, the behavior can be changed without help, or that the community does not care to offer help.

Community Support For Abuse: Some community activities and institutions openly or more subtly support the use of violence to gain a competitive edge or to gain or maintain power. All such support contributes to family abuse. Some examples are:

* Individuals and groups that advocate winning and/or maintaining power at all costs through various recreational and other activities.

* Institutions that support inequitable power distributions related particularly to gender or age.

Community Attitudes That Support The Use Of Force

Within Families:

Any belief and practice that supports the use of force to maintain power and control over certain family members contributes to family abuse.

Devoted, dedicated professionals: the nursing staff

By Patti Pitman-Fisher
Nursing Supervisor

"If our minds can conceive it, and our hearts can believe it, then we can achieve it, because we are somebody!"

Somewhere, sometime long ago, someone wrote that line and it doesn't ring truer than for the openly generous group of folks from Elk Point and surrounding areas who put their energy, devotion and love into the fight to keep Elk Point Hospital alive.

We're now "Elk Point Health Centre," but the name change hasn't changed who we are. We are a dedicated group of professionals devoted to the health and well-being of our patients, residents and community. For the next few months, you will find a snippet of informative "stuff" from the different departments in the Health Centre. This time it is Nursing, but first allow me to tell you of the services we still provide: 24-hour emergency services, 10 bed inpatient - adult and pediatric care, palliative care, respite care, 25 continuing care beds, lab and x-ray, nutrition counselling, Meals-on-Wheels, and recreation. As you can see, we are alive and well!

The Nursing Department offers a wide range of services including direct patient-resident care, resource for community members who require advice, either by giving direct advice or rechanneling the concern. Our nursing staff are qualified in a wide range of areas from assisting physicians in emergencies, to comforting families through their losses. Because we don't deliver babies here on a regular basis anymore, we miss that aspect of care but it means we have to be even more "on our toes" for the unexpected deliveries. In the spring, many of our nurses will be taking an Advanced Cardiac Life Support course. While at the present time, we are all qualified to act in cardiac (heart) emergencies, this course will enable us to more skillfully care for patients requiring advanced cardiac care such as heart attack victims.

Through the years and with much collaborated time and effort on the part of the hospital and the town, we have developed a comprehensive Disaster Plan which is presently being revised to reflect staffing and other changes. This Disaster Plan, among other things, brings together a pool of highly skilled nursing staff to provide the best quality care in a disaster situation.

Rural settings are no stranger to transfer. Stabilizing and transferring patients to a facility with more specialized equipment is a practice we have refined over the years. Depending on the status of the patient, they often require a nurse to accompany them in the ambulance during the transfer, we are fortunate to have nurses who are willing to do that day or night. What a dedicated group!

Frequently, we have cancer patients requiring chemotherapy which we provide on an outpatient basis which eliminates extensive traveling and lodging time and costs in Edmonton.

I could go on forever about all of the wonderful services provided by the nursing staff at the Elk Point Health Centre but I have to leave room for some other news.

Just before I sign off, I'd like to add a few vital, but non-nursing related duties we perform, simply because we're here 24 hours a day. An overflowing toilet from time to time will catch the attention of a plunger-laden nurse. Courteous telephone manners at 4 a.m. for a wrong number make us chuckle. Helping the patient find the bathroom in the middle of the night during an unannounced power failure boosts our belief in why we're here. Finding the closest fire extinguisher during an accidental garbage can fire gives us a sense of well-being. Giving directions to lost souls makes us happy. Entertaining police in the middle of the night keeps us awake. And finally, tucking a loonie under the pillow of a pediatric patient who lost a tooth while in hospital reassures us that we are doing the right thing.

The nurses at the Elk Point Health Centre — this is what we do and who we are. We are very proud to serve our community. See you next month with more good things from the Health Centre.

Take control of your money

During the holiday season, many people purchase gifts on store credit cards. After the holiday glow has dimmed in January, these same people receive statements of their shopping extravaganzas and get the winter blues.

If you have more than one outstanding credit card balance and you feel out of control of your money, then you may want to consider getting a loan. A first step is to gather all your statements and talk to someone from a financial services company who you feel comfortable with and explain your situation.

"Debt consolidation loans help people take control of their money by grouping all outstanding credit card balances and transferring to a fixed-term loan," says Sean Binkley, branch manager, Avco Financial Services. "People find monthly payment programs convenient and are able to pay off their debts faster because more money is going toward paying off the debt instead of credit card interest," Binkley adds.

Financial industry experts say those with outstanding balances often pay only the minimum payment each month. They may intend to pay off the balance but instead make additional purchases or find there's not enough money at the end of the month. Cycles like this are difficult to end and create stress and feelings of lost control.

"A loan becomes a priority in the monthly budget. It's easier for people to make one payment rather than make separate payments toward many credit card balances. People who have loans know when they will be debt free and can budget for future purchases," says Binkley. "When you get a debt consolidation loan, it's also a good idea to develop or revitalize a personal budget."

Experts advise people to prepare a comprehensive budget that realistically sets out your income and expenses, and includes a savings program. This budget becomes the foundation of a money management program involving budgeting, expense control and good planning.

Dollar Sense is a series of articles on money management prepared by Avco Financial Services.

ALZHEIMER'S INFORMATION AVAILABLE -- Information and a video on Alzheimer's Disease, both from the November panel discussion held in Elk Point, were presented to Heritage Lodge representative Alvina Schuhmacher and to Elk Point Library's Michele Duczek by FCSS Director Terri Ehlert. The information is now available for public reading or viewing.

Letter to the Editor

Seeking Depression-era teachers

Dear Editor:

Imagine a time in our country's history during which rural teachers could be found living in converted chicken coops and granaries. They taught in one or two room schools situated miles from the nearest town and lacking such basics as plumbing, electricity and adequate heating. With few teaching tools and libraries pf perhaps less than a dozen books, they delivered a well-rounded education. They functioned as teacher, janitor, carpenter, exterminator, translator and doctor while receiving little or no pay for extended periods of time.

Such teaching conditions were, indeed, experienced during the Great Depression, (1929 - 1939). As with much of that era, however, they have been left largely unrecorded. All that remain are memories, and as time passes, these too are disappearing. Consequently, a distinct and significant segment of Canadian history is becoming lost to us. In order to prevent this, an effort is underway to document the personal experiences of rural teachers of the depression. I urge your readers to contact me if they can contribute to this research. I am particularly interested in hearing from those who taught in rural schools between 1929 and 1939.

Thank you for your assistance.

Sincerely,
Elizabeth McLachlan

What's news at the library?

Bundle up and come in for some cold weather reading!

By Michele Duczek
Librarian

The colder weather hasn't been keeping people from the library. Several of you bundled up and braved the frigid temperatures just long enough to borrow a few books and videos so that you can occupy yourselves during this cold snap. There is plenty at the library to while away a frigid weekend.

For all of you who wish it would warm up, take heart — it will get warmer in a couple of months.

A whole bunch of books in several of our juvenile series have recently arrived:

Everything Jessica predicts at her fortune-telling booth becomes true and people start to blame her for their bad luck in The Incredible Madame Jessica from Sweet Valley Twins.

Jessica starts secretly dating a new guy and is shocked when she discovers he is the leader of a violent gang at a rival school in In Love With the Enemy from Sweet Valley High.

Mallory's wish for an old-fashioned Christmas comes true and that's when the trouble starts in Mallory's Christmas Wish from the Baby-sitters Club.

Karen and her brother buy an expensive angel for the tree but when it breaks they are left with no angel and no money in Karen's Angel from Baby-sitters Little Sister.

A visitor becomes convinced that she can ride only one horse and wants to take that horse home to Maine in Yankee Swap from the Saddle Club.

Joe and Frank sign on as bodyguards for a presidential candidate in Campaign of Crime and then investigate the murder of a shock radio announcer in Shock Jock, both in the Hardy Boys Casefiles.

One of the richest men in town plans to marry his housekeeper and his heirs fear getting cut out of his will in For Love or Money from the Nancy Drew Files.

A promising hockey player is plagued by a series of "accidents" that could ruin his chances for a pro career in Rebel Glory, the first book in a new series, Lightning on Ice, by Sigmund Brouwer.

Fenton's father's dig team is competing with other paleon-tologists to solve a dinosaur puzzle and win a large research grant in The Competition and then Fenton returns to New York for Christmas vacation and finds himself in the middle of a mystery at the New York Museum of Natural History in The Raptor's Claw, both from The Dinosaur Detective.

The trio find themselves in the Wildest West ever in a real life game of cowboys and Indians in The Good, the Bad and the Goofy from the Time Warp Trio.
